INFORMED CONSENT

Confidentiality: Your relationship with Caroline Barnett is important and confidential. Information cannot be released regarding your counseling without your written permission unless disclosure is required by state law. Some examples are: 1) suspected abuse of a child, elderly or disabled person or elder abuse; 2) if you are involved in a legal case, your therapist may be required by law to release your records to attorneys or judges; 3) if you are dangerously close to harming yourself or others your counselor may notify medical or law enforcement personnel; 4) you disclose sexual contact with another mental health professional; or 5) you direct your therapist to release your records. If you see your therapist in public, they will protect your confidentiality by acknowledging you only if you approach them first.

Counseling Relationship: While you work together with your therapist, your sessions may be very intimate psychologically, but please remember this is a professional relationship rather than a social one. Please do not invite any counselor to social gatherings, ask them to write references for you, or ask them to relate to you in any way other than the professional context of your counseling sessions. You will be best served if your sessions concentrate exclusively on your concerns.

Your in-person contact with your therapist will be limited to your counseling. You may leave messages for your counselor at 214.613.1656 and they will return your call as soon as possible. If you experience a mental health emergency, obtain crisis services by calling 911 and/or by going to a nearby hospital emergency room.

Effects of Counseling: At any time, you may initiate a discussion of possible positive or negative effects of entering, not entering, continuing, or discontinuing counseling. While benefits are expected from counseling, specific results are not guaranteed. Counseling is personal exploration and may lead to major changes in your life perspectives and decisions. These changes may affect significant relationships, your job, and/or your understanding of yourself. Some of these life changes could be temporarily distressing. The exact nature of these changes cannot be predicted. Together we will work to achieve the best possible results for you. (See “The Counseling Process Below”)

Client Rights: Some clients achieve their goals in only a few counseling sessions; others may require months or even years of counseling. As a client, you are in complete control and may end your counseling relationship at any time. However, we ask that you participate in a termination session with your therapist. If you have concerns or problems with your counseling relationship or if you have questions about Caroline Barnett’s policies we hope that you will talk directly with your counselor. If your counselor is not able to resolve your concerns, you may report your complaints to the Texas Department of Health, 512-834-6658.

Sessions: Sessions are generally scheduled for 45 - 50 minutes. The appointment you schedule is reserved for you. You will be billed for missed appointments and cancellations of less than 24 hours notice. Unforeseen emergency situations may be taken into account.

Referrals: If for any reason your therapist feels your treatment is beyond their scope of expertise, they will immediately provide a referral to another therapist or facility/group/practice. You will be responsible for contacting and evaluating those referrals and /or alternatives. Certain aspects of treatment may require evaluation through psychological testing or medication. In such cases, a referral to a psychiatrist or medical doctor may be made. Ongoing dialogue with these professionals would be maintained to manage the counseling process effectively.

Fees: Your fee will be negotiate in advance of treatment confidentially with your therapist. If the fee represents a hardship to you, please let your therapist know and they will work with you on a sliding scale as needed. The fee for each session will be due and must be paid by the conclusion of each session. Visa, Mastercard, AMEX, Discover Card, Cash or personal checks made out to Caroline Barnett are acceptable for payment.

Insurance: Caroline Barnett does not file for reimbursement from health insurance companies but you may request the required information be given in order for you to follow up with your insurance provider. If you become involved in litigation that requires your therapist's participation, and due to the complexity and difficulties of legal involvement, Caroline Barnett will charge $250 per hour for preparation for, travel to, and/or attendance at any legal proceedings.

The Counseling Process: Most clients enter counseling because they are in some pain and the pain of not changing their behavior or certain aspects of their life is greater than the pain of change.

Potential benefits of therapy:

- ✓ Improved understanding of self and others. The objective viewpoint of the therapist helps many clients better understand their own feelings and behavior as well as those of others.
- ✓ Progress toward defined goals and objectives. In therapy, the clients and therapist work together to set specific goals and objectives. A way is usually identified to measure progress toward those goals. Most clients can clearly identify the changes in feelings and behavior that they make through therapy.
- ✓ Greater sense of control over moods and behavior. As clients measure progress and identify the tools used to make headway, they often gain feelings of power over moods and behavior.
- ✓ Improved self-esteem. With greater self-control, clients often improve their self-concept. Confronting and managing one's difficulties often leads to improved self-esteem.
- ✓ Improved self-assertion. Many clients increase their ability to assert themselves. As self-esteem and feelings of self-control improve, they feel more able to stand up for their own rights without infringing on the rights of others.
- ✓ Improved relationships with others. By reducing unwanted behaviors and increasing more desirable behaviors, clients often improve relationships with family members or co-workers or friends.
- ✓ Improved capacity for independence. Before therapy many clients may have depended on others for their sense of well-being. Therapy may lead to an increased ability to meet one's own needs.

Potential risks of therapy

- Lack of progress. Some clients do not appear to improve in therapy. For example, depression or anxiety may become worse. Your therapist will monitor your progress with you to determine if this happens and to plan alternatives should this occur.
- Upsetting insight. Therapy may lead to insight into your own behavior or the behavior of others that is upsetting. Your therapist will monitor your feelings with you and discuss these concerns if they arise.
- Feelings of distress. Discussing personal concerns can be upsetting by itself. Clients may experience feelings of sadness, anger, anxiety, or depression in talking about their personal or family difficulties. Clients may also have bad dreams or nightmares as a result of talking about concerns. Part of therapy often involved learning to handle such feelings more effectively when they occur. Your therapist will work with you to develop coping strategies for these feelings if they arise.

- Change in relationships. Although behaviors and moods may change in a way that the client desires, others may not like the changes and may not adjust to the changes the client makes. Improvements in client's self-esteem, self-assertion, or sense of self-control may negatively affect others. Verbal therapy can lead to conflict in marriage or other family relationships. Your therapist will work closely with you to try to anticipate such problems in therapy. However, we cannot anticipate all interpersonal conflicts that may result from therapy.

Please NOTE: This page is for your records and will be returned to you. Complete ONLY if you want this back for your records.
